

Internal Quality Auditing

what's it all about?

The BRC Standard requires that Internal Auditors are both trained and independent of the task being audited. The majority of companies therefore have a need for maintaining a small team of auditors. This also spreads the workload and enables cross-fertilisation of ideas.

Cert ID have developed a practical one day workshop to meet the needs of the standard and improve the outcomes of audits.

who should attend?

- Technical managers
- Internal audit team members
- Consultants

the programme:

- Reporting
- Listening (skills and problems)
- Audit techniques (various audit trails)
- Audit preparation (developing audit programmes, checklists and information gathering)
- Questioning techniques (the auditor's friends and enemies)
- Non-conformities and corrective action programmes - (identify trends)
- Audit follow-up and close out
- The practical exercises involve; audit preparation, nonconformity reporting, observations for improvement, closing meetings
